MEMORANDUM TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The purpose of this memorandum is to provide additional information and some advance discussion on three of the agenda items which were sent out with the announcement of the annual meeting.

1. Regional Vice-Presidents. A list of names for the Board's consideration, together with brief biographical data, is submitted as enclosure (1) hereto.

2. Membership.

a. The membership of the Naval War College Foundation, Inc., presently consists of the nine trustees. Article IV of the By-laws provides: "Membership in the Corporation is open to individuals interested in the objectives for which the Corporation was incorporated and subject to election to membership by the Board of Trustees. The Board of Trustees may establish classes of members, such as 'associate,' 'contributing'" Several trustees have suggested the possibility of establishing classes of membership for which donations would be received.

b. In the course of reaching a decision on this matter, the Trustees should consider the basic question of the means by which the Foundation will best be able to carry out its purpose of providing support to the Naval War College. Three organizational possibilities are offered:

(1) Create several classes of membership to offer to persons who have had past connection with the Naval War College (Global Strategy Discussion Guests, NWC Graduates) in return for a donation.

Advantages. There would be a broadly based membership (about potential if one goes back five years), which would provide some working capital.

Disadvantages. In order to maintain membership lists, mailing lists, and in order to publish a periodic newsletter, it would be necessary for the Foundation to hire at least a part-time (if not full-time) clerk/typist.

(2) Limit membership to the Board of Trustees, and aim fund solicitations primarily at corporate contributors and potential large individual contributors through use of personal contact by the Regional Vice-Presidents.

Advantages. The administrative overhead would be kept low.

Disadvantages. The base of support would be much narrower than in (1) above. Success of this approach would depend upon the effort (and success) of the Regional Vice-Presidents.

(3) Use both of the foregoing approaches, thus combining the advantages of each while eliminating the narrow-base disadvantage of (2).

3. Publicity. Enclosure (2) contains the text for a possible publicity and information brochure on the Foundation. Enclosure (3) is a letter which should be considered as an alternative initial means of "passing the word" on the Foundation. The advantage of a letter is that it is much less expensive to produce than a brochure. Enclosure (3) is too long for a letter, which ideally would run no more than $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages maximum. If the basic approach is suitable, this letter should be reducible to $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages (your suggestions are solicited).

In the Spirit of Mahan

Sims, Taussig, Halsey, Spruance, Nimitz, King, Moorer: these are just a few of our country's naval leaders who have shaped the development of United States' naval strategy and tactics over the years. Instrumental in their professional development was the year or more each spent in study at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island.

The world's oldest naval war college and the Navy's senior educational institution, the U.S. Naval War College has been assigned the mission

To provide naval officers advanced education in the science of naval warfare and related subjects in order to improve their professional competence for higher responsibilities.

To carry out this mission, the Naval War College provides comprehensive advanced education directed toward an understanding of the United States' national objectives and the ways and means of mobilizing effectively the political and military elements of our national power to the achievement of those objectives.

Believing that our country's greatest strength lies in preparedness through education and dedication, the Naval War College has long been a pioneer among U.S. Service Schools in developing teaching methods and curricula which reflect new developments in technology and changes in world politics. As but one example, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz noted in a 1963 letter

The courses were so thorough that after the start of WWII--nothing that happened in the Pacific was strange or unexpected.

In today's world, the United States' international political problems presently involve, and are likely to continue for some time to involve, the proper response to domestic insurgencies within individual foreign countries. In addition, the United States must be prepared for threats of strategic as well as conventional nature. And at the same time our country's domestic problems must be given their proper attention in any ordering of national priorities. The Naval War College curriculum inquires in depth into all of these matters in its effort to educate its students that peace is best maintained by overall national strength--both at home and abroad.

Support is Vital

The U.S. Naval War College is unusual among American institutions of higher learning in several respects:

--Its mission is to educate officers of already proven high capabilities for important command responsibilities.

--Most colleges and universities are controlled by graduates and interested private businessmen who make up the Board of Trustees; the Naval War College's "Board of Trustees" is the Department of the Navy.

--Instead of deriving its operating monies from private endowments and from student tuition, the Naval War College receives its funds from appropriations by the Congress of the United States.

From the Naval War College's point of view, it would be most convenient to have Congressional appropriations to accomplish the many projects which go to sustain and improve the College's capability to accomplish its mission. But its official funding is only a portion of the total defense budget; therefore only the most highly essential projects can compete successfully for tax dollars with weapons systems and domestic priorities.

With the reduction in the United States' overseas military commitments, increasingly greater numbers of naval officers will become available to attend the Naval War College. A nine-year program of progressive construction of four new buildings and rehabilitation of existing buildings will be commenced shortly, and the student body will have increased from its present size of 450 to 700 by 1980. Construction and operating costs alike are rising rapidly, with the result that the appropriated tax dollar is purchasing less and less with the passage of time.

There is, therefore, a growing need to complement official funding in order to accomplish those worthwhile projects not covered by appropriations: this is a need which led to the creation of the Naval War College Foundation, Inc.

What is the Naval War College Foundation, Inc.?

The Naval War College Foundation, Inc., is a charitable, nonbusiness corporation organized under the General Laws of Rhode Island in November 1969. Its objective is to provide a private source of support to aid the Naval War College to carry out its mission. (The essential portion of the "Purpose" clause of the Foundation's Articles of Association appears on the inside back cover.)

The Foundation's directorate is a Board of Trustees who are elected by the membership of the Foundation and who in turn elect a President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer from their number. None of the trustees or officers receives compensation for his services.

Prior to the incorporation of the Naval War College Foundation, Inc., the Chief of Naval Personnel gave his approval for the President, U.S. Naval War College, to cooperate in the formation of the Foundation, and for the inclusion of two active-duty officers of the Naval War College on the Board of Trustees to insure that only appropriate donations are accepted.

The Foundation also has Regional Vice-Presidents in many key locations throughout the United States. Each Regional Vice-President acts within his stated geographical area on behalf of the Foundation in such manner as may be authorized by the Board of Trustees.

Tax Status

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that the Naval War College Foundation, Inc., is tax-exempt as a charitable organization. Contributions to it are deductible for income tax purposes to the extent permitted by law.

Membership

Membership in the Naval War College Foundation, Inc., is open to individuals interested in the objectives for which it was created and subject to election to membership by the Board of Trustees.

The Foundation has four classes of membership:

Life Membership--a one-time donation of $1000.

Contributing Membership--Donation of $250 per year (becomes Life Membership after four years of Contributing Membership).

Sustaining Membership--Donation of $25 per year.

Active-Duty Membership--Donation of $10 per year.

An application for membership is provided in this brochure.

Gift Policy

The Naval War College Foundation, Inc., will accept donations restricted for a particular purpose, or unrestricted donations which the Board of Trustees will apply toward such specific projects as it deems appropriate.

Pursuant to the Bylaws of the Foundation, only the Board of Trustees has the authority to accept offers of donations.

The Foundation will perform the steps necessary to effect the transfer of donations to the Naval War College in accordance with the established procedures of the U.S. Navy.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Prospective Founder Members

Enclosed are five lists of those who attended the Global Strategy Discussions in the years 1966 through 1970. The lists for 1966, 1969, and 1970 contain no active-duty military names, while those for 1967 and 1968 are integrated lists.

I apologize for the rough condition of these lists: they are the only such lists in existence. In the interests of saving time and minimizing costs I am using them rather than redoing them in smooth form. (The markings on the lists were done by the Naval War College Review for its mailing list purposes.) Also enclosed is a listing of the Secretaries and Under-Secretaries of the Navy for the past 20 years.

Would you please look over these lists and mark the names of those civilians and retired military officers whom you consider to be the best choices to invite to become Founder Members of the Foundation. I suggest that principal criteria for such choices would be: pro-Navy and/or pro-Naval War College orientation (or a general philanthropic disposition); and wealth. Please feel free to suggest additional persons whose names do not appear on these lists.

As an aid to your evaluation of the names on the GSD lists, the following observations are offered: addresses and positions were correct in the year of the listing and may not be correct today; the same name may appear on more than one year's list; the markings (checks and interlineations) should be ignored; disregard the active duty military officers whose names appear on the 1967 and 1968 lists (unless, of course, you know of any who has retired in the interim).

Notice of next Board of Trustees' Meeting

The Board of Trustees of the Naval War College Foundation, Inc. will meet at the U.S. Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island at 1:00 p.m. on Friday, 16 October 1970. An agenda will be sent to you at a later date.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Subject: Founder Membership and Members

Founder Membership

The mail poll initiated by my memorandum of 22 July 1970 produced the following results:

For a $1,000 Founder Membership:	4
For a Founder Membership of from $500 to $1,000:	1
For a Life Membership of $1,000 with a Founder Membership of $500:	1
For a scale of memberships from $25 to $250 and dubious about a price tag as high as $1,000:	1
Unheard from as yet:	2

In view of the inconclusive nature of this poll, we should discuss this matter further at the next meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Founder Members

Enclosures (1) through (5) are lists of those who attended GSD in the years 1966 through 1970. The lists for 1966, 1969, and 1970 contain no active duty military, while those for 1967 and 1968 are integrated lists.

In the interests of saving time and minimizing costs I am using them rather than redoing them in smooth form. (The markings on the lists were done by the Naval War College Review for its mailing list purposes.) Enclosure (6) is a listing of the Secretaries and Under-Secretaries of the Navy for the past 20 years.

Would you please look over these lists and mark 100 names of those civilians and retired military officers whom you consider to be the best choices to invite to become Founder Members of the Foundation. I suggest that principal criteria for such choices would be: pro-Navy and/or pro-Naval War College orientation (or a general philanthropic disposition); and wealth. Please feel free to suggest additional persons whose names do not appear on these lists.

When evaluating the GSD lists, the following suggestions are offered: addresses and positions were correct in the year of the listing and may not be correct today; the same name may appear on more than one year's list; the markings (checks and interlineations) should be ignored; disregard the active duty military officers whose names appear on the 1967 and 1968 lists (unless, of course, they have retired in the interim).

When the choices of all of the members of the Board of Trustees are in, I shall send each trustee a composite listing of all the choices as a basis for discussion at our next meeting.

Memorandum for the Board:

There are several matters that I wish to discuss before the Board. As you perhaps know, I have been working largely on the "Founder Member" memberships. Wherever I have been I have been happily greeted excepting on several occasions in Hawaii, where there seems to be a strong apathy, in certain areas, to do anything for the Navy - perhaps because of taxes. In general, they seemed to feel that they preferred to donate their funds to Hawaiian needs rather than to the Naval War College Foundation. This was surprising to me.

(A) Founder Members:

My big problem, when I was out West, was the long delays I encountered in the field of communications. As a matter of interest I found that when I talked to someone of quality, I generally convinced him, rather early, as to the importance of his membership. Then I wrote to Lt. Comdr. Michael, who did his best to send the Foundation literature to the person concerned. However, this often took weeks, because the Foundation is sharing its Secretary with Raytheon Corporation. I am glad to report that, if all goes well as planned, we should have a permanent secretary within one month. This should facilitate operations greatly.

As a matter of interest, I have about one dozen citizens who wish to join the Foundation, but it is difficult to get them to finally donate. They are doing so but slowly. And there will be more!

I think that if we had appointed Regional Vice Presidents, as desired by Mr. Brown, we might well have had a few more "Founder Members".

I recommend that we continue the "Founder Member" drive for one year more. We should be able to get our planned one hundred.

(B) Memberships:

1. On my travels both in Hawaii and San Francisco, I have been advised not to go after low priced memberships as they are fairly hard to get and it takes too many of them to even pay the expenses of the Secretary.

2. There is some hope in Corporate Membership at say $500 per year.

(C) Foundations:

I have been advised that the best source of revenue is from foundations such as the Rockefeller Foundation and the Carnegie Foundation; also Corporation foundations, such as the U.S. Steel, the oil companies, and other industrial grants. Does anyone here know how to approach such foundations?

(D) Projects:

One way to attract customers might be to establish some projects which are of interest to the public and which are not too expensive to the Foundation. The Admiral Gerald Wright plan for the exchange of naval lecturers between the Royal Navy and ourselves is a case in point.
